STOW, Mass. (AP) — Edward Faber of Mansfield loved to play golf so much he wanted to be buried by the 18th green of the Stow Acres Country Club.

Faber died Feb. 14 at the age of 62. A memorial service was held at dusk Saturday on the 18th green. Sunday golfers noted with some incredulity the grave covering of flowers with two golf balls nestled in the stems.

Faber requested in his will that his cremated remains be buried on the course he so often played.

Robert Page, who owns the course with a brother, said "Some people thought it was a joke. Later, when they believed, they thought we were out of our minds. But we are serious. We think it is kind of nice."

Faber's widow said she was (Continued on Back Page, Col. 4)

Reds Lob 40 Rounds At Saigon, Hit 2 Ships

Compiled From AP and UPI

SAIGON — Viet Cong gunners fired 40 shells into Saigon early Tuesday morning, hitting targets near Tan Son Nhut AB, the Saigon docks and the Y Bridge. Fighting erupted on the southern edge of the South Vietnamese capital.

Reports on damage and casualties were incomplete but the U.S. command said two rounds hit cargo ships docked at Saigon River piers.

Another shell damaged the Cho Quan power station cutting off electricity in south-central Saigon, according to police reports. The rounds hit along the western perimeter of sprawling Tan Son Nhut AB.

The shells were believed to be a mixture of mortars and the big 122mm rockets.

A U.S. spokesman said one of the ships hit had a shell burst on the right side while a cargo boom on the second vessel was hit. Both ships are under U.S. military contract.

Many of the shells apparently hit along the southern edge of the city, including about a dozen near the Y Bridge. The bridge, across the Kinh Doi Canal on Saigon's southern border, was the scene of heavy fighting three weeks ago.

The predawn attacks Tuesday came after a tear gas raid Monday by U.S. helicopters over Viet Cong strongholds in Saigon, in a new and safer tactic against Communist commando teams. About 1,000 civilian refugees huddled in a nearby church.

5 Missing as Hurricane Abby Roars Toward Florida Coast

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Hurricane Abby, with five persons missing at sea in her wake, stalled off the Florida Gulf Coast Monday, building up strength for an assault against the populous Tampa Bay area.

The sudden halt by the hurricane, already carrying 75-mile-an-hour winds, set its arrival at the mainland back until after daybreak Tuesday.

But the Weather Bureau said it still expected Abby, the first storm of the new season, to hit the Tampa-St. Petersburg area.

Torrential rains fell on the Fort Myers area. A junior college in St. Petersburg cancelled night classes and an electronics firm cancelled its night shifts.

But a civil defense spokesman at Fort Myers said "We're really not worried about anything but some moderate winds and a little high water." Residents were calmly boarding up windows and checking into motels.

Hurricane warnings were hoisted from Marco Island on the lower Gulf Coast 170 miles north to Tarpon Springs.

Artist Warhol Shot by Girl

NEW YORK (AP) — Andy Warhol, film producer and a leading figure in the world of pop art, and Mario Amaya, described by police as the owner of a London art gallery, were shot and critically wounded Monday in Warhol's office. Police sought a woman for questioning in the case.

Police said Warhol, 41, and Amaya, 30, of London, were in Warhol's office when a woman asked Paul Morrissey, a secretary, if she could see Warhol.

Warhol told Morrissey to let her in after the secretary identified the woman by name, Valeria Solanis.

Within minutes, Morrissey told police, the woman calmly walked out, but she left the door to Warhol's office slightly ajar.

The woman left the building and police said they were seeking her for questioning.

Saigon Officials Probably Killed By U.S. Rocket

S&S Vietnam Bureau

SAIGON — The U.S. Mission said Monday there is a "strong probability" the missile that killed Saigon's police chief and five other city officials was an errant rocket fired by an American helicopter.

At least four others, including Saigon mayor Col. Van Cua, were injured in the Sunday afternoon explosion that ripped the south Saigon schoolhouse they were using as a command post in an engagement with Communist infiltrators.

In a printed statement, the U.S. Mission said it was likely that one of three rockets fired by the helicopter at an enemy target had malfunctioned, fallen short and landed near the officials.

According to the statement, the helicopter had been called in by the local military commander. The target was "some distance away" from the school at a spot from where friendly forces had been receiving small arms fire.

"Investigation by U.S. military authorities reveals that the helicopter fired three rockets," the statement said, "two of which were seen to impact on the selected target. The third malfunctioned."

"Since there was fire fighting involving enemy rockets in the general area of the explosion, it cannot be absolutely determined what happened," it continued. "But the U.S. Mission concludes that there is a strong probability that the third rocket, which fell short of its target, landed in the vicinity of the officials."

U.S. Ambassador Samuel D. Berger extended regrets and condolences to the South Vietnamese government and the families of the victims.

A U.S. military spokesman said the incident was still under investigation. He indicated that the name of the helicopter pilot and other details would be withheld until the probe is completed.

Mayor Cua was reported in satisfactory condition Sunday.

Victims of the blast were Lt. Col. Nguyen Van Luan, Saigon police chief; Lt. Col. Pho Quoc Chu, director of the Port of Saigon; Lt. Col. Dao Ba Phuoc, commander of the 5th Vietnamese Ranger Regt.; Maj. Nguyen Bao Thuy, brother of Gen. Nguyen Bao Tri, former pacification minister; Maj. Nguyen Ngoc Sinh, Saigon chief of police operations, and Lt. Col. Le Ngoc Tru, 5th Precinct police chief.

Jets Pound Panhandle

S&S Vietnam Bureau

SAIGON — U.S. pilots struck at North Vietnam's storage areas and lines of communication Sunday in 100 missions over the Panhandle.

Ground fire was reported light to moderate.

Air Force tactical fighter-bombers destroyed or damaged four trucks, two radio towers and an antiaircraft gun position. Carrier-based Navy jets destroyed or damaged a bridge, seven supply boats and five trucks.

Air Force B52s rained bombs on enemy troop concentrations as close as 22 miles west of Saigon Sunday and early Monday.

Cambodia Lists Terms For Freeing 2 GIs

PHNOM PHENH (UPI) — Cambodia demanded Monday that the United States "recognize and respect" its frontiers in return for releasing two American soldiers held by Phnom Phenh.

The demand was included in a note sent by Cambodian Chief of State Prince Norodom Sihanouk to Washington. The text was made public here.

If the demand is not met the soldiers will be tried and sentenced, the Cambodians said.

The note said that Cambodia could not give the soldiers the special treatment accorded to the National Liberation Forces (Viet Cong) of Vietnam "because the Viet Cong recognizes the Cambodian frontiers and the United States contests them."

The message added, "If the United States recognizes and respects the Cambodian frontiers..."

Terrorists Kill 3 Thai Policemen

BANGKOK (UPI) — A terrorist band ambushed a police patrol in Betong District along the Thai-Malaysian border Sunday, killing three policemen and wounding three others, officials said Monday.

It was the biggest Communist action in Thailand since a band of tribal guerrillas killed 15 of 17 men in a police camp along the Burmese border 600 miles north of Bangkok four weeks ago.

In northeast Thailand, the leader of a terrorist band that operated in Ubon and Nakorn Thanom Provinces, about 375 miles northeast of Bangkok, surrendered to authorities. In Bangkok, Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn said Communist activity last week was light. He said government forces suffered no casualties but killed two guerrillas and captured 13 others.

Thanom also released figures showing the government has killed 378 guerrillas since December, 1966, most of them in the northeast. But he declined to give figures for government losses said to have been about the same level in the period covered.

(Thanom, giving figures compiled by the Communist operations suppression command, said 5,381 more Communists were captured or surrendered, AP reported.)

(The bulk of the terrorists were killed and captured in the northeast provinces of Thailand bordering Laos.)

(An estimated 2,000 full time guerrillas are thought to be entrenched in the six northeast provinces despite a strong government military and social campaign.)

Westy Sees Graduation

HAVERHILL, Mass. (UPI)—Any father wants to see his daughter receive her college diploma.

Gen. William Westmoreland, departing commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, is no exception.

Westmoreland attended the junior college graduation ceremony Sunday for his daughter Katherine, 20, amidst much secrecy, at Bradford Junior College. Westmoreland had been meeting with President Johnson in Texas the past few days.

School officials said they kept the visit secret "because we didn't want to disrupt the graduation ceremonies."

Westmoreland, seated in the front row under a tent, watched his daughter accept her diploma along with 192 other students. The ceremonies took place during a heavy rain.

U.S. Troops Find Tear-Gas Cache

SAIGON (S&S) — U.S. infantrymen sweeping through an enemy bunker complex Sunday 29 miles northeast of Saigon uncovered a cache containing 200 pounds of tear gas.

Soldiers from the 199th Light Inf. Brigade made the discovery after killing 12 enemy in a battle against a force of unknown size in the jungle-covered hills. Three U.S. soldiers were killed.

'A Good Fight by Movies Yardstick'

Outnumbered, They Won Battle for Hill 990

EDITOR'S NOTE—AP photographer Rick Merron spent two days with an American company under siege by North Vietnamese soldiers on Hill 990 in South Vietnam's central highlands. He filed this dispatch after leaving aboard a helicopter carrying the bodies of some of the fallen Americans.

By RICK MERRON

HILL 990, Vietnam (AP) — "I was plenty scared and I heard a lot of praying," said Pfc. Nicholas Decker, Tyler, Tex. "But I think we fought well judging by all the movies I've seen."

The 20-year-old soldier hadn't seen much war except for movies. Decker had only been in Vietnam eight days and spent four days in the field when North Vietnamese troops attacked his position atop Hill 990 in the central highlands.

Some 150 4th Infantry Division troops repulsed the attack, but they had to wait two days to get their wounded and dead out because heavy enemy fire kept rescue helicopters away.

At one point, walking wounded were ordered to man defense positions.

The attack by an estimated 400 North Vietnamese began early Thursday in the dark.

Capt. Douglas Foster, Gainesville, Ga., commander of Delta

Company, said the enemy probed the position first and then moved up behind grenades and small-arms fire.

They knocked out part of the company's perimeter and Foster gave the order to pull back toward the command post.

Other men in the besieged company didn't have a chance to pull back. Sgt. Roger Harrell, 25, Dallas, Tex. was with a mortar element near the perimeter.

"One of them threw a grenade in the bunker, wounding one of the five of us," he added.

"We kept hearing the enemy yell, 'Surrender, G.I.' in English," Harrell said. "One of the guys put his plotting board against the entrance hole, but it didn't keep the grenades out."

At one point the North Vietnamese pushed a powder-filled bamboo pole into the bunker and detonated it.

"It didn't do much damage but it scared the hell out of us," Harrell said.

The base ammunition dump exploded shortly after the attack began, caving in the bunker around the trapped men.

"We played dead but we could hear the North Vietnamese all around us, and we could see them firing at the command post," Harrell said.

The fighting continued through the night, with U.S. artillery finally pushing back the enemy. At 5 a.m. they broke contact, leaving an estimated 50 dead. Six Americans were killed and 43 wounded.

Three medical evacuation helicopters picked up some seriously wounded men in the morning, but as the fourth helicopter was coming in the enemy began pounding the camp with artillery.

The company's strength drained, reinforcements were requested and four helicopters brought in about a platoon of new men. But enemy fire drove away other attempts to land reinforcements.

The remainder of the relief company was landed several miles away and started a forced march to the hilltop position.

By nightfall the reinforcements had not arrived and Foster ordered the walking wounded to help man the perimeter.

After a tortuous walk through the rain and some of Vietnam's worst terrain, the rest of the relief company finally arrived at 1 a.m. Friday. The base was under artillery fire all day and the incoming rounds again kept relief helicopters away.

Foster decided to move his men to another knoll on Hill 990 and in several trips the company transferred its wounded and equipment to the wooded knoll under fire.

Saturday morning a landing zone was cut out and Saturday afternoon the rest of the wounded were picked up by helicopters.

New Color Seen Aid To Flyers

WASHINGTON (PAO) — Downed naval aviators in Vietnam will stand a better chance of survival because of a change in the colors of their inflatable life saving equipment.

Instead of the standard bright yellow or international orange, the color of the aviator's life preserver and raft will change to blue.

The old colors have proven to be a handicap to the downed pilot in Vietnam who seeks concealment from the enemy while awaiting rescue. To alleviate the problem, the Naval Air Systems Command used a tested and approved blue marking ink. The ink and appropriate instructions for use have been sent to the combat area to permit rapid dyeing of inflatables now in use.

The new blue inflatables will not reduce the pilot's odds of being rescued. The downed aviator still has other locator devices such as transceivers, radio beacons, strobe lights, flares, mirrors, and dye markers.

Mascot Smokey Is Canine GI

DI AN, Vietnam (IO) — In early January 1967 a tiny gray puppy was found in an abandoned VC dwelling by a 1st Bn., 18th Inf., reconnaissance patrol near Phu Loi. The maintenance platoon adopted the pup and dubbed him Smokey.

After being inoculated and registered, the dog became a fixture at the "Swamp Rats" Headquarters area.

Smokey accompanies ambush patrols outside Di An. He has an instinctive dislike for Viet Cong and growls softly when he detects the enemy.

He has a built-in time system and rarely misses a meal at the mess hall. He shows up 10 minutes before chow and waits for handouts.

Smokey takes three showers a day. He walks into the shower when he hears the water running and stands under the water.

The canine makes a routine check of all guard posts each night. He sometimes stays with his friends on their post all night.

"Smokey is really something," says Spec. 4 Moses Gutierrez of Los Angeles. "He dives into the nearest bunker when the alert siren blows. You might think he was human."

Spec. 5 Kenneth A. Myers, Tiffin, Ohio, says, "There aren't many things in war that can improve morale like a good representative of man's best friend."

Circulation Up With VC Aid

PHUOC VINH, Vietnam (IO) — The 101st Airborne Div.'s "Screaming Eagle" newspaper has discovered its circulation is expanding beyond normal expectations.

Paratroopers from B Co., 1st Bn. (Abn), 506th Inf. were searching a hastily abandoned Viet Cong bunker complex when they came upon a structure resembling a day room. On one of the tables were several copies of the newspaper. The lead story told how paratroopers had successfully engaged a larger NVA force only two miles away.

At Chieu Hoi Center

Ex-VC Get New, Better Life

LONG BINH, Vietnam (IO)—Early in the morning on May 22nd, Bui Duc Thang, the director of the Chieu Hoi (Open Arms) Center at Tay Ninh, heard his dogs barking suspiciously behind the center's maintenance shop. As a former Cao Dai major, he knew the sounds of war well, and alerted the residents of the center to take defensive positions.

For the next 30 minutes, the 45 Hoi Chanh (former VC) who live at the center held off a fiery rocket, mortar and ground attack by two platoons of Viet Cong. When the fighting was over, one Hoi Chanh had been killed and nine others were wounded.

This and the four previous attacks on the center might have caused misgivings among these war-weary former VC had it not been for the Vietnamese government's rapid response.

Within 36 hours, Capt. Nguyen Ta Dinh, III Corps Regional Delegate of the Ministry for Chieu Hoi, had presented 2,000 piasters to each of the nine wounded Hoi Chanh, and 5,000 piasters and a year's salary to the family of the dead man. A sack of rice and a gallon of cooking oil was given to each Hoi Chanh who participated in the center's defense.

Also on the day following the attack, a contractor had begun making an estimate on repairs to the center's damaged buildings, most of which the Hoi Chanh had painstakingly built by hand. Repairs to the buildings, riddled by more than 40 B-40 rockets, were estimated at 200,000 piasters (about $2,000).

Lt. Col. Ho Duc Trung, Tay Ninh's Province Chief, promised to supply Regional Force (RF) platoons to provide security for the center in the future.

This last gift was perhaps the most welcome to the Hoi Chanh at Tay Ninh. With the security of the center assured, they can now return to the job they've been trained for — spreading news of the Chieu Hoi policy among the Viet Cong.

The men of the Chieu Hoi Center at Tay Ninh are members of Armed Propaganda Teams (APT). They travel to villages in the province contacting the families of VC, giving lectures, distributing leaflets, trying to convince their own friends among the VC that the government is sincere in its promise to take care of VC.

The Chieu Hoi Center at Tay

Ninh is positive proof of this promise. Viet Cong who come through its gates to give themselves up are given 30 piasters a day for a food allowance, 200 piasters (about $1.75) a month for pocket money. If they bring in a rifle with them, it's worth 3,000 piasters (about $28.00); a sub-machine gun is worth 5,000 piasters (about $45.00).

While at the center, Hoi Chanh are free to make use of all its facilities—snack bar, reading room, TV, musical instruments, vegetable garden—all of this in contrast to the torture the VC told them they might expect if they turned themselves in.

Don't Do It Like This

LONG BINH, Vietnam (IO) — Here's an important notice to instructors of technical subjects—know your subject matter!

One of the first rules that an instructor must follow deals with possessing a thorough knowledge of the subject to be taught. This fact was dramatically pointed out recently to the Viet Cong in Bien Hoa Province.

At 11:00 p.m. one evening, the Viet Cong entered Long Tam

Village in Nhon Trach District for propaganda purposes. The VC gathered the young men of the village together for a demonstration on "how to use a hand grenade." While the instructors were preparing to give their lecture the grenade exploded. Results: Two Viet Cong killed and one wounded.

Yugoslav Cops, Students Battle; Scores Injured

BELGRADE (UPI)—About 1,000 students battled police in the streets of Belgrade Monday and occupied Belgrade University's administration building.

In a second clash with police in about 12 hours, students first stole and then burned a fire-truck, overturned several cars and hurled rocks at riot police from behind makeshift barricades. Scores of persons were reported injured.

Rebellious student leaders seized the administrative building and said they would stay there until their demands for university reforms were met.

Police tried to put down the first serious student challenge to the regime of President Tito by using truncheons and high pressure water hoses on the students. Witnesses said police fired arms during the riots, a charge denied by police, at Belgrade University student dormitories.

A number of Communist officials who wanted to address the demonstrators were booed.

least clear that its imposition by a hanging jury cannot be squared with the Constitution," he added.

Ruling in an Illinois case, the majority found the state "stacked the deck" against William C. Witherspoon when he was sentenced to death by a jury from which 39 veniremen were excluded after expressing doubts about capital punishment "without any effort to find out whether their scruples would invariably compel them to vote against capital punishment."

One of the dissenters, Hugo L. Black, said from the bench that the majority "is making new law."

The court did not deal with the constitutionality of the death penalty itself. Nor did it disturb the right of the prosecution to challenge for cause those prospective jurors who say their reservations about capital punishment would prevent them from making an impartial decision as to a defendant's guilt or innocence.

In other actions, the court: —Agreed to decide whether city and state voters have the right to nullify open housing ordinances. The case came from Akron, Ohio.

—Agreed to review conviction of comedian Dick Gregory in a civil rights march on the home of Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago.

—Held, in an Illinois case, that a teacher may not be fired for speaking out on public issues in the absence of "proof of false statements knowingly or recklessly made by him."

—Upset the narcotics conviction of a Los Angeles man because federal officers who made the arrest entered a closed but unlocked door.

Several of Warhol's paintings hang in the Museum of Modern Art—two of Campbell soup cans and one of Marilyn Monroe in gold.

Warhol also made paintings of Brillo (cleaning pad) boxes and toured with an electronic rock group called Velvet Underground, whose members wore boots, false eyelashes and striped tight pants.

He has produced over 150 underground movies. The best known, "Chelsea Girls," was the first underground film to be shown in a plush commercial theater.

Shells Hit Ships at Saigon

following criticism over the death of six Saigon officials that the U.S. Mission says might have been caused by a stray rocket from a U.S. helicopter firing at enemy positions.

Far to the north, around the isolated American outpost at Khe Sanh, UPI correspondent Perry Young reported a new U.S. offensive to crush a North Vietnamese Division of 6,000-7,000 men threatening the base.

Marine Brig. Gen. Carly W. Hoffman said Khe Sanh defenders had killed 552 North Vietnamese in the past week in three separate actions along Highway 9. The highway is a major supply route for allied outposts just below the Demilitarized Zone.

South Vietnamese military headquarters reported a major engagement Sunday about 15 miles south of the Demilitarized zone, near Quang Tri City, in which government forces reported killing 107 North Vietnamese troops while suffering losses of 19 killed and 62 wounded.

American headquarters said U.S. helicopters supporting allied troops battling Monday in the Cholon section of Saigon dropped two loads of tear gas. Spokesmen said the gas was showered downwind from civilian refugees crowded into battered St. Xavier's Roman Catholic Church.

South Vietnamese Rangers and tanks, blasting concrete building sanctuaries of Viet Cong snipers with their 90mm cannons, squeezed about 30 guerrillas into a four block area in the Cholon section where there has been house-to-house fighting since last Friday.

AP correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from the scene that there was not much firing from the Viet Cong Monday morning. A U.S. advisor told Wheeler the Viet Cong apparently were conserving ammunition for a final fight which could come soon.

South Vietnamese military headquarters said two fresh battalions of Viet Cong — between 600 and 800 men—had infiltrated into the Gia Dinh section of Saigon, 2½ miles from the Presidential Palace.

The units were said to have infiltrated in the areas around the Bang Ky and Buih Loi bridges, reportedly to reinforce Viet Cong units which, by government count, have lost 222 dead in the last three days of fighting on the northeastern fringes of the capital. Government casualties for the same period were reported as 17 marines killed and 72 wounded.

still somewhat taken aback by her husband's request, although "he talked often of it."

"He just loved the game so much," she said, "and this is what he really wanted, so I think it is nice. I am happy."

She said she was surprised and pleased by the cooperation of the owners.

"It wasn't easy to have to call them and say that my husband wanted to be buried on the green. I mean how do you explain something like that?"

The Page brothers said they were first stunned by the request but felt honored.

They said some of the club members seemed a bit upset, but one later added, "It'll turn out all right. Who knows, the players might even find it a help. Some golfer might overshoot the green and there will be a friendly hand now to tap the ball back toward the green."

They plan to erect a plaque to mark the grave. "We thought that if he cared enough about the course we could do a little something for him out there," Robert Page said.

The memorial stone, he said,

Hurricane—

Abby was located about 160 miles south-southwest of Tampa near latitude 25.8 north, longitude 83.7 west. It was expected to resume its north-northeasterly course later.

Abby forced postponement of the Coast Guard's search for the sloop Celerity with two couples aboard and the commercial fishing boat Sandy, carrying John Adamic, 61, of Marathon in the Florida Keys.

The Celerity was reported overdue Sunday when it failed to reach Key West on a voyage from Dry Tortugas. The Coast Guard identified the couples aboard as Mr. and Mrs. John Michel and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Olsen, but said it had no addresses for them.
